-THE BEE recently contained an ac count of the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Gerhart, who had been living with a 18th street shoe man named Doubracky. It was feared she had committed suicide as she seemed decidedly demented when she appeared at the police court to make the Central hall. Thursday was the Gustave Susserman, Mrs. P. Nelson, her complaint charging Doubracky with robbing her. Thursday she reappeared, accompanied by her lawful husband. It seems that Mrs. Gerhart packed her valuables in a trunk and put it in charge of a friend named Semers, intending to proceed to Wyoming. The gale came up from the direction of Papillion, crossing the edge of the few fences and posts.

It was traveling a little east of north and was preceded by curious shaped, dark clouds, which seemed to bound like a ball in its progress.

It passed very close to the residence of Mr. Sebastian Blumle, but missed it by about fifty feet and struck an out-house 10x10 feet in size and carried it into the brush about one hundred and fifty feet away, landing right side up with care.

After leaving this place it jumped about a quarter or a half mile down and struck Batton's place, on Twentieth and Dorcas streets, where it lifted the house and set it in a reverse position on its foundation. It then hugged the ground and passed down the alley, where it took a new barn in its path and demolished it, while an old and rickety stable a little further on was left untouched. Mr. N. N. Edwards' place was in the path of the wind storm, and he was blown up against a tree and somewhat bruised. At Dan O'Keefe's place the fences were totally wrecked; a tree in his door yard as large as a man's body, was wrenched off; the house was com-

by Judge Chadwick.

The Omata Claimant Wins on the First Round.

The Kelley case, which has excited so much interest and comment in this city, especially in the Sixth ward, where the parties reside, was decided by Judge Chadwick, of the county court, at 2 o'clock yesterday.

The facts briefly recapitulated are these: A woman claiming to be the legal wife of John Kelly deceased, joyable celebration of the sixty-ninth formerly a member of Engine company No. 1, appeared in O neha a few weeks ago and laid claim to two children whom she asserted she was the mother of. These children were two girls, aged respectively 14 and 16 and were living with a woman who had always been known in this city se Mrs. John Kally, The Pailadelphia woman produced undoubted proof of her marriage, her pension certificate and the certificates of christening of

They, however, had been so long weaped from their true mother that they declined to go with her, and both being over 14 years of age, had the right to chose their own guardian.

They were brought into the county court on a writ of habeas corpus, and
